OUR STORY – Early in my career I realized that technology is an integral tool that drives a business's success. When I married a hotelier I discovered that the mid to small scale hotelier was underserved with less than stellar support and the wrong products. I set out to change that. With careful product selection, a fanatical approach to service and quality relationships with manufacturers and suppliers, I assembled a carefully selected product line tailored to this market. My team include hotel experienced staff who speak your language and understand what it takes to run a thriving hotel business. I personally invite you to see what a difference it makes when you deal with my team of professionals who truly understand technology and know hospitality. Jay Lemmons, Owner.
